

The children have settled back into class fantastically this half term. They have made a positive start to their learning this week. The children have been reminded of the expectations of their behaviour and the school rules. I look forwards to working with the children.

Maths:

In Maths, the children will be counting to 20, identifying shapes, adding and taking away.

English:

In English, the children are going to be looking at a variety of books based on 'Kings and Queens'. The children are going to be writing sentences, creating story maps and editing their work.

Understanding the world:

Over the next half term, the children are going to be learning about the King's coronation and changing of the guard. They will re-enact the coronation in class. The children will also be learning about King John and decide what they would do if they were the king for the day!

Phonics:

In phonics, the children are going to be reading and write longer words, word ending in ing, ed and est, compound words and sentences.

Information regarding sounds, capital letters and tricky words are being set home with homework. Please read these so you can support your child at home.

PE:

In PE, the children will develop their fitness skills.

Personal, Social and Emotional Development.

The children are going to be completing work based on building relationships.

Music:

The children will be creating instruments, following the beat and performing in time to the music.

Class messages:

A huge thank you to Sheards Packaging for creating a huge castle for a provision areas. We can not wait to use this in busy time.
